Citizens Invite Crime, DA Says

Each 24 hours throughout the year, countless tempting invitations to crime are extended to professional and amateur criminals in Los Angeles County by unthinking citizens, according to District Attorney S. Ernest Roll, who added that a sharp rise in the already staggering crime load may be anticipated during the summer vacation months.

Vacationists with well-filled wallets will drive away from unlocked homes, the District Attorney said, forgetting to leave a note for the paperboy or the milkman. While the papers and milk bottles accumulate to invite burglars, these vacationists will be picking up hitch-hikers and inviting robbery by a display of the contents of their wallets at the first lunch room or filling station.

Teen-Age Trouble

Some of these vacationing parents undoubtedly will leave teenagers behind to fend for themselves, the District Attorney continued, and with the family car gone, that unlocked convertible parked on a dark corner will present an almost irresistible attraction to the kids—a real invitation to crime. Once in a stolen car, anything can happen. It is an easy step to a stick-up or a burglary to obtain money for a juvenile spree.

Meantime, filling station attendants, motels and shopkeepers throughout the vacation area will be cashing phony checks for strangers just because they are well-dressed or drive a flashy car, and the one million, 750 thousand arrests reported in 1953 throughout the country will probably climb past the two million mark.

Juvenile Crime

"National law enforcement authorities tell us that four major crimes are committed in the United States every 60 seconds," District Attorney Roll said, "and juveniles are responsible for a large percentage of these offenses. With crime continuing to mount locally and nationally every responsible citizen should stand up and face the situation and fight back. There are men and women who encourage the growth of crime by their very reluctance to stand up and oppose it.

"The schools, churches, clubs and law enforcement agencies have important roles to play, but the responsibility is not theirs alone. It is the responsibility of every honest citizen to aid in stemming the rising tide of lawlessness."

Adults at Fault

Quite often juvenile delinquency, District Attorney Roll said, might well be described as adult delinquency. All too often, he continued, parents abdicate their responsibility. The home becomes merely a place to sleep, eat a few bites or change clothes; no longer is it a center of living and learning. Parents
